Title: YD-1-10 Youth detention – Complaints to external agencies

Policy statement:

The department fully supports and actively facilitates young people’s access to external complaints mechanisms, in particular, those administered by the Queensland Police Service (QPS) and Office of the Public Guardian (the Public Guardian), Office of the Queensland Ombudsman (the Queensland Ombudsman) and the Queensland Human Rights Commission (QHRC).

The department will also take all reasonable steps to facilitate and participate in the resolution process (where relevant).

Principles:

1. Overview of complaints processes available to young people in youth detention

A young person in youth detention can make a complaint or raise an issue or concern through many different avenues. The diagram below outlines the agencies and their complaints jurisdiction in relation to young people in youth detention.

A young person in youth detention can make a complaint to:

- a youth detention centre directly about any matter relating to services provided in youth detention or decisions, actions or inactions that impacted them.
- QPS if they are the victim of an alleged criminal offence.
- the Public Guardian about anything they are concerned about.
- the Queensland Ombudsman or the QHRC if the young person is unhappy with how their complaint was dealt with.

Depending on the nature of the complaint and who received it, matters can also be referred to and investigated by the:

- Professional Standards Unit
- Corruption Commission
- Health Ombudsman
- Department of Child Safety, Youth and Women
2. Complaints by young people to QPS
The department will support a young person who chooses to make a complaint to QPS:

- following an alleged assault by a young person or staff member in youth detention
- if they are subject to a reasonable threat by a young person in youth detention to harm them or a member of their family
- any other circumstance where a young person is the victim of a potential criminal offence perpetrated by a young person, staff member or other person in youth detention.

The department is committed to supporting young people's right to make a complaint to QPS and will facilitate this by ensuring that:

- young people are aware of their right to make a complaint to QPS
- young people know what they can make a complaint about
- local procedures are in place to facilitate young people’s access to QPS complaints processes
- young people are supported through the process
- in the event a complaint is made about a staff member or another young person, steps are taken by detention centre management to prevent (as far as reasonably possible) the victimisation of either party, while the matter is being investigated
- reasonable steps are taken for all CaPE category 3 complaints to ensure as far as practically possible and appropriate that contact is restricted between the complainant and subject officer. This principle will be considered where appropriate for other complaints
- if a young person wishes to make a complaint to the QPS that may be vexatious, the complaint is referred regardless (if QPS find the complaint to be without merit and vexatious in nature, consequences may be applied to the young person through the behaviour support framework).

Procedural details of how the department facilitates the resolution of these matters are in the Youth Detention Centre Operations Manual.

3. Complaints by young people to the Public Guardian
The department will support a young person who chooses to make a complaint or raise an issue with the Public Guardian.

The department is committed to supporting and facilitating young people’s access to the Public Guardian by ensuring:

- young people are aware of their right to make a complaint to the Public Guardian
- young people are aware of how they can make a complaint to the Public Guardian
- young people know what they can make a complaint about
- local procedures are in place to facilitate the Public Guardian’s access (via community visitors) to the detention centre
- local procedures are in place between community visitors and detention centre management to facilitate the timely resolution of locally-resolvable complaints
- the role of the Public Guardian is promoted to young people in youth detention
- young people who make a complaint to the Public Guardian are supported through the process, in the event a complaint is made about a staff member or another young person, and steps are taken by detention centre management to prevent (as far as reasonably possible) the victimisation of either party, while the matter is being investigated
- reasonable steps are taken for all CaPE category 3 complaints to ensure as far as practically possible and appropriate that contact is restricted between the complainant and subject officer. This principle will be considered where appropriate for other complaints.

Procedural details of how the department facilitates the resolution of these matters can be found in the Youth Detention Centre Operations Manual.
4. Complaints by young people to other external complaints agencies

As part of the department’s complaints management process for young people in youth detention, the department will ensure that complainants understand their right to external review options, such as the Office of the Queensland Ombudsman and the QHRA. For more information about external review options, please see Chapter 1 of the Youth Detention Centre Operations Manual.
